Carter: “The electoral system in Venezuela is the best in the world”

Last week, during the Annual Conversations held at the Carter Center, former US President Jimmy Carter said that “the voting system in Venezuela is the best in the world”.

Carter commended Smartmatic’s e-voting technology for allowing an easy verification of the results, basing his opinion on the 92 elections the institution has observed around the world.

According to Mr. Carter, besides using touch-screen voting machines that store votes electronically, Smartmatic’s technology implements a printed paper receipt for each vote, which gives the system a great added value and makes the verification of results an uncomplicated task.

Restoring trust in #elections will require education, not just on technological enhancements, but on how our system of technology certifications & vote tally checks-and-balances provide valid outcomes.
